SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

EXCITING SUMMER 2013 3 CREDIT COURSE OFFERINGS FROM THE MASTER OF ARTS IN PSYCHOLOGY PROGRAM!

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

PHENOMENOLOGICAL RESEARCH
PSYC 513 with Kevin Krycka
July 22-August 12, TTH 5:30-8:40PM
The course will introduce learners to qualitative research and phenomenological methods and assumptions underlying each kind of research and method.

GROUP: IDENTITY IN COMMUNITY
PSYC 515 Annemieke Algra, Visiting Professor from the Netherlands
5 day short intensive schedule, meets July 10-14, W-Sa 9am-5pm, Su 9am-Noon
Theme-centered interaction (TCI) is a method of working with groups. Rooted in psychoanalytic and humanistic psychology, Ruth Cohn's method stimulates group members' self-leadership and invites participants to actively collaborate with each other. In this class we will learn how to work with groups experientially, by working as a group together.

EXISTENTIAL PSYCHOTHERAPY
PSYC 591 Darren Landgridge, Visiting Professor for the UK
5 day short intensive schedule, meets July 22-26, 9am-3pm daily.
This summer school will include theoretical lectures and class discussion, practical activities to develop skills and understanding and student directed work to facilitate learning.

TRAUMA
PSYC 526 With Doug Hansen
August 19-September 14, TTH 5:30pm-8:45pm
This course explores current understandings of psychological trauma and approaches to its treatment. Although discussions and activities will primarily be rooted in existential and dynamic perspectives on trauma, we will examine as well cultural psychological, feminist and cognitive contributions to work with trauma survivors.

SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Questions?
Contact the Psychology Department

Phone:206-296-5400
Email:
eppsyc@seattleu.edu

For more information and course descriptions visit http://www.seattleu.edu/artsci/map/Inner.aspx?id=70688