Course Description:

Goals: The polity course has as its primary goal the preparation of seminarians to successful pass their Presbyterian Standard Ordination Examination in Polity. This requires knowledge of the Constitution, Part I, the Book of Confessions, and Part II, the Book of Order. The Exam requires, however, that the student be able to answer situational, pastoral questions typically encountered in the practice of ministry, rather than a straight recitation of the "law" of the denomination. The nature of the questions reflects centuries of Presbyterian experience of living within a particular, even peculiar, ethos. Every Presbyterian pastor functions as a resource on polity and a parliamentarian in the Session (local congregational governing body) and participates regularly in Presbytery (regional governing body), where all procedures, including amendment of the Book of Order itself, are governed by these foundational documents. Further, the Directory for Worship, the central section of the Book of Order, regulates the liturgical life of the Presbyterian Church and guides pastors, in cooperation with Sessions, in the planning and celebration of the liturgical life of the congregation. A second, equally important goal is, therefore, the preparation of seminarians for their role as ministers, where the ability to interpret and use the Confessions and polity of the church are matters of frequent, sometimes daily, practice.

Objectives and Student Outcomes: Working knowledge of the polity of the PCUSA; confidence in one's knowledge as one takes the Standard Ordination Exams; formation of ministers for their role as presbyters in every governing body (Session, Presbytery, Synod, General Assembly); deeper appropriation of the Presbyterian ethos within an ecumenical setting; knowledge of and ability to practice within the liturgical standards of the Directory for Worship.

Requirements:
Attendance: Expected (no unexcused absences)
Participation: Everyone will be invited and expected to participate in class discussions and response to presentations in a small group seminar style of class. Students will be invited to help design and carry out several small group assignments.
Readings: As indicated in the schedule below
Written Assignments: For each class meeting, a paragraph or two of reaction/reflection/ critique of the assigned reading materials, together with 3-5 questions for discussion. These are to be prepared in sufficient copies to distribute to instructor and class members. [These assignments, together with class participation, will represent 25% of the grade for the class.]

A 5-6 page paper on a topic drawn from the Book of Order, in consultation with the instructor or a complete liturgy for Sunday worship including the celebration of a Sacrament, together with a discussion of the appropriate authorizations, participation, actions, material elements, and other considerations according to the Directory for Worship. Due on February 1, with copies for instructor and class members to facilitate class discussion. [25% of grade]

A one-page Statement of Faith (a draft toward preparation for Ordination Examination in the student's Presbytery) with 5-6 pages of background and argument from the Constitutional documents and Scripture. The Statement is to be read aloud (as will be required in Presbytery) and discussed in class. Due on March 1 for presentation and discussion on that day or on March 8, with copies for instructor and class members. [25% of grade]

The final exam will be comprised of questions drawn from recent actual Standard Ordination Exams in polity. [25% of grade]
