Student Employment: Federal or State Work Study awards are not included in the cost calculation above because wages earned for work performed are paid directly to the student in the form of a paycheck on scheduled pay dates.

The Student Financial Services Office is responsible for posting both on-campus and off-campus employment opportunities for Seattle University students on the Redhawk Network, an online job board of part-time and temporary positions. A Federal or State Work Study award on the SU Award Letter does not guarantee employment. On-campus Federal Work Study and off-campus State Work Study employment opportunities are limited. Students are responsible for performing their own job search using the Redhawk Network. Job search strategies are available through SU Career Services: www.seattleu.edu/careerservices/.

If the SU Financial Aid Award Letter includes a Federal or State work study award, please review the Student Financial Services Student Employment web page at www.seattleu.edu/financial-aid/student-employment/ for additional detailed information on these programs.
