PRINCIPAL CERTIFICATE PROGRAM FOR ASPIRING CATHOLIC SCHOOL EDUCATORS

The Catholic Schools Department has partnered with Seattle University's College of Education to design a program of study leading to Washington State principal certification. This principal program will be cohort-based and is designed to meet the unique needs and qualities of Catholic school leadership in Catholic identity and faith formation, budgeting, and governance. The two-year, part-time program is tailored to meet individual needs with options for a Master's Degree, Post-Master's certification, or Educational Specialist Degree. Applicants must meet the Seattle University Graduate Admissions requirements.

Catholic school educators admitted to the program will receive a 50% tuition reduction from Seattle University. Program candidates will be responsible for the remaining tuition costs. Limited scholarship funds may be available through the Fulcrum Foundation.

For more information about this specialized educational administration program, call 206-296-6170 or <http://www.seattleu.edu/coe/edadmin/>.

The first cohort begins in 2014-15. Apply by December 31, 2013 at www.seattleu.edu/graduate-admissions/apply/.
