SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

EDUCATING LEADERS FOR A JUST AND HUMANE WORLD

THE MASTER OF ARTS IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE PROGRAM

Seattle University's MACJ Graduates will be prepared for positions and advancement in law enforcement, courts, corrections, social service, victim services, and research agencies in private, county, state, and federal agencies. The MACJ curriculum consists of 55 credits: 18 three-credit courses and 1 one-credit course. Students take ten foundation courses (28 credits) and nine elective courses (27 credits)—four of which (12 credits) can be selected as concentration area courses. Optional concentration areas include: Criminal Justice Research & Evaluation, Investigative Criminology, and Victimology. All courses are offered in the evening and/or weekends to accommodate working professionals. Graduates will be prepared for positions and advancement in law enforcement, courts, corrections, social service, victim services, and research agencies in private, county, state, and federal agencies.

FOUNDATION COURSES

A number of MACJ courses are taught in a seminar format, allowing open discussion of course content.

STUDENTS

Our students bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the classroom. The diversity in race, age, educational and career backgrounds makes for rich interaction in a supportive, rigorous learning environment. Students enjoy the emphasis placed on peer learning and application of coursework to real-world problems.

The majority of our MACJ students work full-time while attending graduate school. Students take one, two, or three classes per quarter depending on their schedules and course offerings.

Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice

UNDERSTANDING CRIME AND PROMOTING JUSTICE THROUGH RESEARCH, LEADERSHIP, AND SERVICE

Criminal Justice is an interdisciplinary social science involving the study of crime and societal responses to it. The goals of the Criminal Justice Masters program are:

- Develop in students the knowledge, insight, critical thinking skills, values and ethical consciousness essential to becoming responsible practitioners, researchers, and leaders in criminal justice.
- Provide comprehensive, rigorous, analytic, focused study of crime and justice issues with emphasis on the application of theory and research in criminal justice to criminal justice initiatives, policies, and practices.
- Provide a strong foundation in criminology, research methods, statistics, organizational theory, criminal justice ethics, issues of diversity in criminal justice, and broad-based analysis of the criminal justice system with focus on law enforcement, the adjudication process, and corrections.
- Prepare students for positions and advancement in law enforcement, courts, corrections, social service, and research agencies in private, county, state, and federal agencies.

Graduate faculty are committed to challenging our students to critically analyze the criminal justice system.
