

International Studies (INST) Program Learning Outcomes

1. Demonstrate a nuanced and comprehensive understanding of global affairs through a conjunction of insights from multiple academic disciplines
2. Evaluate the ethical and social justice dimensions of global realities and think critically about own vision of – and commitment to – a more just, humane, and sustainable world
3. Appraise personal values and commitments and appreciate human diversity through engagement with diverse cultures, worldviews, and experiences
4. Participate competently in public debates about government policy, non-governmental activities, and human lives worldwide
5. Develop the analytical, communication, research, problem-solving, and teamwork skills necessary for leadership in diverse situations
6. Understand the connections between global cultures, economics, and politics in the present and as they have been constructed over time
7. Apprehend the relationship between power, wealth, and identity in the world from a critical perspective
8. Understand the mutually constitutive and causal relationships between local, national, regional, and global realities
9. Communicate effectively in both speech and writing at an intermediate level in a language other than English
10. Acquire in-depth knowledge and appreciation of at least one country besides the United States through a sustained education abroad experience