

ProTeach Prep for Teachers

Preparing ethical and reflective professionals for quality service in diverse communities

ProTeach Prep for Teachers provides support for teachers who are preparing for the state ProTeach Portfolio assessment, in order to earn the Professional Certificate (the advance level certificate) in Washington. Participants work closely with members of their cohort, university faculty, and a site-based Professional Growth Team to prepare for the ProTeach Portfolio state assessment. The three required entries, which focus on the demonstration of knowledge and skills that have a positive impact on student learning, are completed during the two courses.

ProTeach Prep for Teachers

ProTeach Prep for Teachers consists of two courses or six credits, taken within one school year. It is designed to support teachers who are preparing for the ProTeach Portfolio assessment in order to earn a Professional Certificate. Participants need to have already been accepted into a master's degree program in the College of Education to register for the two courses. Participants may apply 3-6 credits towards the completion of master's degrees in Educational Administration, Curriculum and Instruction, Literacy for Special Needs, or Special Education. Master's degree students in the College of Education may register for these courses as a part of their graduate study.
