Are & Be is a monthly series that provides tips on how to be successful both on- and off-campus. You will learn how to navigate college life, become a community leader, practice self-care, manage your finances, and much more.

Topic: Queer Community Activism

For positive social change to happen, we believe that communities need real power. Sometimes this power is handed out by governments, and sometimes communities come together to gain power on their own accord and on their own terms. Come and learn how communities can empower themselves through community organizing and digital activism.
