

Welcome to Seattle University.

The Department of Housing & Residence Life [HRL] is excited to welcome The Class of 2023 to campus.

Our entire HRL staff is committed to providing residential communities which will enhance your personal development, academic success and social engagement within physical environments that are safe, clean and well-maintained.

We view you—and your parents and families— as important partners in this enterprise.

Our shared goal for SU campus residents is to assist and guide you in participating and contributing to healthy and positive residential communities where individuals value respect, assume responsibility, and achieve socially and academically. During your critical and important “first year” - you will soon find the campus residential experience will serve as the other half of your education.

Welcome. We look forward to serving you in the year ahead.

David Stephen, Ed.D. Director—Housing & Residence Life

Our pledge to Parents & Families.

Accountability. The University does not replace your parents and families, but we do assume responsibility for providing residential environments which are safe, secure, clean, and conducive to the academic and personal development of your student. Doing so is largely achieved by holding community members accountable for the decisions they make. Just as you have been held to the standards and expectations of your family’s home—the University does as well and the attendant consequences that come when expectations are not fulfilled.

For a comprehensive overview of the residence hall experience and our expectations for students— the Resident Handbook is made is available to you at: www.seattleu.edu/housing/housing

The Resident Handbook is an addendum to your Housing Agreement ... The “rules of the road” so to speak and includes important information for which you will be held accountable.

Communication. There is federal law [FERPA: Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974] which governs the conditions under which the campus can or will contact your family. In general, the nominal violation of campus rules and policies in which a student is involved will likely not trigger a University outreach to parents. However—important exceptions to parent notification include imminent risk to health and safety and/or alcohol or drug policy violations. Okay—now you know this will work ... you cannot say you didn’t know.

What YOU should expect. Expect change. Students arrive each Fall Quarter with great expectations and we know your parents/families do as well.

No doubt—You have worked hard to get here and we see ourselves as stakeholders in your collegiate experience.

The University considers you to be an adult and will treat you within that frame of reference. We understand the change experience and are here to share it with you.

And remember this too ... the “enigma of parenthood” is your families have dedicated the first 17+ years of your life to get you ready to be here this fall quarter ... The transition from “home-to-college” for THEM—as you leave home—is a real thing and may be difficult. Point is ... expect change in them too and be patient.

Community Respect. As a University housing student—you will be part of a community which represents diversity in many elements: cultural, social, racial, and ethnic backgrounds that encompass a broad spectrum of experiences. This will be manifested in diverse religious beliefs, sexual orientations, sexual identities and expressions, ability/disability, and/or political identification. A healthy and vibrant community is predicated on mutual respect in an atmosphere of positive encouragement and accountability. HRL is dedicated to encouraging and supporting residence hall communities which celebrate the totality of each person.

The Academic Environment. In each community, “Quiet Hours” are 10:00 pm to 7:00 am Sunday through Thursday; 11:00 pm to 7:00 am on Friday and Saturday. Additionally, it is expected residents will maintain a reasonable noise level during daytime periods. “Courtesy Hours” should be observed 24-7 everyday—all day. The right to quiet supersedes the privilege to make noise. Each residential community has study lounges/spaces designated for quiet study at all hours ... Use them.

Theme Communities. Residence halls and floors have designated THEME FLOORS formed around personal and academic interests. From specific academic majors to various extracurricular interests to leadership programs—there are numerous opportunities available which are connected within your campus home.

- > CAMPION HALL: Outdoor Exploration; Mind, Body, Wellness; Creative Expression; Millie Bown Russell & Social Change
- > XAVIER HALL: Global Exploration
- > BELLARMINE HALL: Career Discovery; Business & Innovation; STEM & Health Professions

Activities & Programming. There are many and frequent opportunities for students to become directly involved with their student housing experience—both educationally and socially. Residential Life staff in each hall are responsible for sponsoring in-hall activities, special events, and programs. Leadership development and leadership opportunities— through community governance—afford students the opportunity to become actively engaged in the college experience. Individual hall councils are elected in each community and the Residence Hall Association [RHA] serves as the student voice to Housing & Residence Life administration. Each of these groups and organizations are student-centered and student-led. We strongly encourage your involvement in the community where you reside.

Campus Alcohol & Drug Policies. The Department of Residence Life & Housing maintains policies with regard to alcohol use and illicit drug use/possession. In accordance with the Seattle University Code of Student Conduct, students under the age of 21 may not possess, consume, provide, manufacture, sell, exchange or otherwise distribute alcohol. Students may not possess, consume, furnish, manufacture, sell, exchange, or otherwise distribute any drug prohibited by federal or state law. For a comprehensive overview of the residence hall experience and our expectations for students plus a thorough explanation of residence hall rules/regulations — the Resident Handbook is made is available to you at: www.seattleu.edu/housing

Safety and Security. Each residence hall provides:

- Residence Life staff “on-duty” throughout the academic year when students are in residence
- Front Desk service in each residence hall
- Access to the University Public Safety Department
- Residence hall entrance doors secured 24/7 with access via SU card access
- Security cameras located at all University housing entrances
- Emergency communication “Blue Light” telephone system situated adjacent to each University housing community
- State-of-the-art fire and life safety systems in each residence hall
- Access to the Night Hawk Safety Escort Program which provide a safe and convenient way of traveling by vehicle throughout the surrounding community for SU students and affiliates during evening hours:
  - > Sunday – Thursday: 6pm to Midnight
  - > Friday and Saturday: 6pm to 2am
- Access to the Walking Escort Service available to SU students, staff and faculty who request a walking escort within to two (2) blocks off the campus perimeter. This service is offered 24-hours a day, seven days a week during academic periods.

Residential & Campus Dining Seattle University believes living and interacting with others outside of the classroom enhances the education of the whole person. To that end—the on-campus dining program offers many opportunities to serve this purpose. On-campus dining fosters a vibrant, tight-knit community in a social setting and provides opportunities for students to develop supportive relationships, meet new people, and interact with faculty and staff in a non-classroom setting.

Meal Plan Policy Seattle University’s meal plans provide quality, variety, flexibility and value. Items are priced à la carte so students can choose exactly what they desire. A meal plan is required for all first and second year residents living in on-campus or affiliate housing. There are three (3) meal plans for first and second year students which are (a) Maximum (b) Expanded, and (c) Residential. The meal plan selected for Fall quarter will be automatically renewed each quarter unless it is changed within the first 10 class days of the next quarter [see below].

Meal Options The University offers a wide variety of dining venues, menus and hours of operation. Redhawk Dining offers nutritional information and guidance, vegan and vegetarian selections, local and organic options, as well as special assistance with medically prescribed diets.

Meal Plan Changes Meal plan changes may be made during the first ten (10) business days of each quarter by submitting the online Meal Plan Change Request form through the Housing Portal. A Meal Plan change is any change of a meal plan within the policy outlined above.

Meal Plan Fund Rollover Policy Ideally, the meal plan selected will be depleted by the end of each quarter. If there are monies remaining on the meal plan at the end of the quarter, a limited amount will be carried forward [i.e., Rollover MP Account] from quarter-to-quarter during the academic year.

- > A maximum of $250 will roll over to the next quarter.
- > A meal plan must be purchased for the following quarter and balance depleted before funds from the Rollover MP is used.
- > At the end of Spring Quarter, all leftover meal plan and roll over money will be forfeited to the University.

Meal Plan Exemption Policy Meal Plan Exemptions are any changes to a meal plan outside of the policy outlined above. The University recognizes four (4) circumstances when exemptions may be possible:

- A severe financial burden which, without some relief, may result in the student having to withdraw from SU;
- Medically diagnosed condition with prescribed dietary restrictions which the campus dining program is unable to reasonably accommodate;
- Religion-based dietary restrictions which the meal plan options are unable to reasonably accommodate;
- Exceptional circumstances that would hinder the student's ability to complete the meal plan requirement as stated in the policy above.
