

KNOCKING DOWN BARRIERS TO THE OUTDOORS FOR

more info about braided seeds

BIPOC

Braided Seeds

HS-219 Environmental Justice invites you to join us

THURSDAY APRIL 30, 3:20-5:40PM in NOTION 1

The event will feature guest speaker Ashleigh Shoecraft, executive director of Braided Seeds, a Washington nonprofit focused on providing rest, restoration and repair for BIPOC individuals through connection with the land.

Curious about the the tower garden in MCC? Want to learn about ways to serve the local community?

Want to witness some BEAUTIFUL educational performances? We hope to see you there! Please fill out THIS form to RSVP:

Questions? email
bmayberry@seattleu.edu

additionally, there will be performances and art/education installations on environmental justice, as well as a presentation about hyperlocal urban agriculture and the prospects of solar-punking on campus.