Direct Transfer Associate's Degree (DTA)

Review the two year program of study for Communication Studies, Strategic Communication, and Journalism.

A degree in Communication and Media prepares you to become an effective and ethical communicator in a variety of contexts. All students must choose a specialization, but with the flexibility built into the curriculum, they may also double- or triple-specialize, provided they have room in their educational plan to do so. This major will prepare you for a diverse range of careers, including journalism, corporate communication, nonprofit advocacy and public relations. Drawing on a combination of practical skills and theory, courses are designed to teach students about the role of communication in society and provide them with experience in developing their oral, written, visual and digital communication skills. A key part of our students' education, internships offer the practical, hands-on experience students can take far beyond graduation. Students intern at PR agencies, news outlets, arts organizations, non-profits and other organizations across Seattle.

Students choose from the following specializations:

Communication Studies
Strategic Communication
Journalism

Degrees offered: BA, minor

The Core curriculum is Seattle University's common undergraduate educational experience. The key elements of this curriculum are foundational knowledge in several relevant disciplines, critical inquiry, reflection on learning and values, and preparation for life as effective and ethical global citizens. It invites students into engaged learning about themselves, their communities, and the world. The Core is a thoughtfully designed, integrated curriculum created to help all SU students grow as scholars, as citizens, and as reflective and engaged whole persons, ready to make a difference in the world.

Students who complete an approved Associates degree (DTA) will be guaranteed junior standing (90 quarter transfer credits) upon admission to Seattle University, and 8 of the University Core requirements will be waived. The following five Core courses must be taken at SU or another Jesuit institution:
