Review the two year program of study for Anthropology.

The Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology is designed to empower students with anthropological knowledge and skills that are both immediately valuable as well as a foundation for further intellectual development. The major offers students ample opportunity to develop and pursue their particular interests while acquiring a solid foundation in anthropological principles, methods and theory. Regardless of your future career plans, anthropology gives you the foundational skills to successfully navigate and understand our increasingly global, multicultural world, while opening up new horizons for personal reflection and growth.

Degrees offered: BA, BA with departmental honors, minor

The Core curriculum is Seattle University's common undergraduate educational experience. The key elements of this curriculum are foundational knowledge in several relevant disciplines, critical inquiry, reflection on learning and values, and preparation for life as effective and ethical global citizens. It invites students into engaged learning about themselves, their communities, and the world. The Core is a thoughtfully designed, integrated curriculum created to help all SU students grow as scholars, as citizens, and as reflective and engaged whole persons, ready to make a difference in the world.

Students who complete an approved Associates degree (DTA) will be guaranteed junior standing (90 quarter transfer credits) upon admission to Seattle University, and 8 of the University Core requirements will be waived. The following five Core courses must be taken at SU or another Jesuit institution:
